says that Jessie Raymond bought off by Hill's Son.

[illegible] publication of the statement from the plaintiff in the seduction case against Senator Hill, of Georgia, repudiating her affidavit, and exculpating the senator, has to-day brought the well known lady lawyer, Mrs. Belva Lockwood to the front, and her published counter statement is this evening a racy topic in gossiping circles. She shows by the affidavits of responsible parties that the plaintiff, Miss Raymond, did make oath to the charges and sign the papers in the case with a full knowledge of their contents; and Mrs. Lockwood further declares that she is prepared to prove that her client was subsequently bought off by Senator Hill's son and a friend of Hill, who visited her for that purpose immediately after the suit was brought.

Terms of Compromise with the Utes.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Nothing is known of the Ute question except what can be learned through Secretary Schurz. Even the senators from Colorado have not been invited to attend the conference between Secretary Schurz and the Utes, and know nothing of the arrangements except what Schurz tells them. The understanding as represented by him is that the Utes have agreed either to go out of the state or accept lands in severalty in the state, and that each adult male is to have one hundred and sixty acres, and each woman and minor sixty acres. One of the conditions is that the Meeker murderers shall be given up as soon as the arrangements are finally agreed upon. Secretary Schurz will submit the matter to congress and ask authority to appoint a commission to go out and settle matters with the tribe. The Colorado delegation believes that the Utes would rather go out of the state than accept lands in severalty within its limits.

Bill to Elevate the Agricultural Department.

A bill was reported to the house to day by Representative Aiken, making the department of agriculture an executive department and its head a member of the cabinet. It was accompanied by a minority report by Covert.

POLITICAL.

Movement Against Grant in New York and New Jersey.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The seeds of bitterness sown by the Utica convention, among the Brooklyn republicans are springing up. In the fourth ward association last night a resolution opposing the nomination of Grant was carried by a considerable majority, and much feeling was shown.

On motion of Wm. A. Linn, one of the editors of the Evening Post, the following resolution was unanimously adopted by the republicans of Bergen county, N. J.:

Resolved, That inasmuch as the united vote of the party is necessary to its success in November, we deem it inadvisable that Gen Grant should receive the nomination for president from the republican national convention at Chicago, and it is the wish of this convention that the delegates elected here shall oppose at Trenton the choice of any delegate to Chicago who favors Gen. Grant's nomination.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The Star this evening makes the following editorial comments on the recent utterances of the Cincinnati Enquirer concerning the Chinese question:

There are indications of a disposition in certain democratic quarters to push the Chinese question to the front as an issue to be fought over in the presidential canvass. The Cincinnati Enquirer, which, from its location and prominence in its party, will have a good deal of influence with the national democratic convention, predicts that the Chinaman will appear in Chicago to vex the national republican convention. The Enquirer then proceeds to compare the records of the democratic and republican parties upon this question in order to show that the latter is responsible for the defeat of the bill passed by congress to restrict Chinese immigration. A democratic movement would signify a purpose to make a special effort to carry the Pacific states. These are the only states in which the issue could add strength to a party. The only pronounced and prominent candidate for the democratic nomination who has made a record on the Chinese question that commends him to the people of the Pacific coast is Senator Thurman. He has labored unceasingly in behalf of a law to restrict the immigration of Chinese, and for this service the democrats of the Pacific coast have upon different occasions expressed a decided preference for him as a presidential candidate. The move to make the Chinaman to figure in the coming political contest has been inaugurated in Ohio, and as Senator Thurman is the candidate of his party in that state the question arises, Is it intended to add to his boom?

Tilden's Agents "Working up" Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—A member of one of the county democratic committees in Pennsylvania, who is now in Washington, says that Tilden has agents all through the state working in his interest, and that they use money freely in the interest of their employer. In counties that have chosen anti-Tilden delegates to the coming state convention, these agents are engaged trying to induce the regular delegates to remain at home and appoint substitutes who will vote for Tilden. In my own county a delegate was offered $50 if he would consent to let a certain man go to the convention as his substitute or proxy. Of the delegates elected up to the present time, nearly two thirds are against Tilden, and he is trying to overcome this in every way possible. If Pennsylvania sends an anti-Tilden delegation to the national convention it will be almost impossible for him to get the nomination, and that is the reason our state is being worked so thoroughly.

A Pointed Comparison.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Congressman Morrison of Illinois, while discussing with some other shrewd politicians the probabilities that the republicans may nominate Grant and the democrats Tilden, illustrated his opinions as follows: "Such a contest would be what we call in Illinois a slow race; that is, it will be that your mule can beat mine; you will ride my mule and I will ride yours, and of course the point of interest with both of us will be to beat the other's mule. Well, if Tilden is the nominee there will be enough democrats want the other mule beat; and if Grant is the nominee there will be enough republicans to take the other mule to make the race interesting. Now, in such an event, I don't know who would come in ahead."

The Tennessee Democracy.

NASHVILLE, March 5.—The democratic state central committee has called a convention for June 8th. The committee stands nine for Bayard, two for Seymour and one for Tilden.

The Greenback Nominations.

ST. LOUIS, March 5.—The resolutions adopted by the greenback convention are substantially the same as last year. Dillaye of Maine was nominated president, and Beckwith of Colorado nominated as vice president.

Ohio Prohibition Convention.

COLUMBUS, March 5.—The state prohibition convention to-day, nominated for secretary of state, Wm. H. Doane, and a full list of minor officers and presidential electors. Resolutions were passed approving the conduct of Mrs. Hayes and condemning ex-President Grant for fostering the liquor traffic.

PERMANENT APPROPRIATIONS.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The senate committee on appropriations yesterday authorized Chairman Davis of West Virginia to report for passage the following important measure, based upon, but in many particulars differing from the bill originally introduced, to repeal certain laws relative to permanent and indefinite appropriations:

Be it enacted, That all laws heretofore made for the appropriation of moneys from the general treasury for permanent specific and permanent indefinite objects, except so far as they provide appropriations for sinking fund, for the payment of interest, premium or principal of the public debt, or of bonds issued to the Pacific railroad companies, or for expenses pertaining to refunding of the national debt, not exceeding one-half of one per cent. of the bond authorized by acts of July 14 1870, Jan. 20, 1871, and Jan. 14, 1875, for expenses of the Smithsonian Institution and interest on the trust fund thereof, for the payment of interest on the navy pension fund, for refunding taxes illegally collected, for allowance or drawbacks under the internal revenue laws, for marine hospital service, for the support of the soldiers' home, for repayment to importers of excess of deposits, debentures or drawbacks, etc., and the payment of proceeds of sales of unclaimed merchandise under customs revenue laws be, and the same are hereby repealed to take effect from and after June 30, 1881. Provided, That the payment of expenditures which are properly incurred within one year prior to June 30, 1881, under any of the appropriations affected by this act, may be made at any time within one year after that date. After the expiration of such time any balances remaining unexpended of such appropriations shall be carried to the surplus fund. All appropriations hereafter to be made shall remain available for two years for the payment of expenditures properly incurred within the time for which they are appropriated, except appropriations for construction of public buildings, rivers and harbors, lighthouses and ports which shall remain available for a like purpose for a period of four years, at the expiration of which period all appropriations or balances of appropriations which shall have been upon the books of the treasury for said periods of two or four years respectively, shall be carried to the surplus fund, and with the exception of appropriations for the public debt, the limitations herein placed upon expenditures shall apply to all appropriations now upon the books of the treasury.

Section 3.—It shall be the duty of the heads of the several departments of the government to include in their annual estimates to congress estimates of the amounts required for expenditure under appropriations affected by this act for the service of the official year of 1882, and annually thereafter.

Sec. 4.—All laws or parts of laws inconsistent with the provisions of this act shall be and hereby are repealed.

THE LATEST NIHILIST ASSASSIN.

The Tool of a Murderous Clan—His Statement and Execution.

ST. PETERSBURG March 4.—Vladetsky, after judgment was pronounced against him, stated that he was arrested in St. Petersburg in 1879 and deported to Irsk, but escaped. When he heard that his party was preparing a revolution for the 2d of March he resolved to go to St. Petersburg. Having heard of Gen. Melikoff's appointment, the revolutionists ordered that nothing be done on the 2d inst., but the postponement of the revolution preventing him from getting money, he resolved to kill Gen. Melikoff.

Another Story.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—The name of the world-be-assassin of Melikoff is Vladetzky. He says that he was ordered to commit the crime, and that he acted from principle and not from personal motives. When arrested he behaved in such a manner as to suggest mental derangement, but a surgeon pronounced him sane. When before Gen. Zuroff, prefect of police, for preliminary examination, he made a declaration regarding his arrest last year and escape from justice. He said that he was a native of Minsk, 30 years old and became a convert from Judaism because it was impossible for a Jew to live in St. Petersburg. Gen. Melikoff on Wednesday evening ordered a court martial Thursday and the trial began at 11 o'clock that day. The prisoner was insolent in language and demeanor, and refused to stand up or take any part in the proceedings, saying that he had nothing to add to what he had already told Gen. Zuroff; that he did not want to be troubled any more and wanted the matter finished. Depositions were then read and the prisoner withdrawn while the court deliberated. He was brought back at 1 o'clock and judgment pronounced.

The Execution.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—Vladetsky, the Nihilist, who attempted to shoot Gen. Melikoff on Wednesday, was brought to-day from the fortress to a place of execution and strapped in a sitting posture in a black vehicle with his back to the horses. A placard bearing the words "state criminal," was attached to his breast. A company of Cossacks formed an escort. The scaffold was surrounded by infantry drawn up in a hollow square. On the way to the scaffold and after reaching it, Vladetsky was quite calm, smiling occasionally. After the sentence had been read, Vladetsky turned and bowed on all sides to the people. Just before he was delivered to the hangman, he said a few words to a priest and kissed the cross. The execution took place in the presence of an immense concourse. The body remained hanging twenty minutes. The police arrested seven men in the crowd having the appearance of students. They were taken to the fortress under a strong escort.

Arrested for Treasonable Utterances.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—It is said that the seven men taken into custody by the police at the execution of Vladetsky, were arrested for saying that though the present attempt had failed, another would succeed.

Produced Satisfaction.

A Berlin dispatch reports that the czar, in his letter to Emperor William, states that the emperor's letter of congratulation has produced the most intense satisfaction in St. Petersburg.

Numerous Arrests Reported.

VIENNA, March 5.—Unconfirmed reports from St. Petersburg say that important discoveries have been made there and a large number of people, among them some officials, chiefly of the home department, have been arrested in consequence.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

In the Reichstag.

BERLIN, March 5.—In the reichstag yesterday, Herr Haenel introduced a motion calling on Admiral VonStoch, chief of the imperial admiralty, to submit to the house an official report of the loss of the ironclad Grosser Kurfurst. Admiral VonStoch denied that he had endeavored to shift responsibility for the disaster on others. Unsen, national liberal, opposed the motion. He said that the house ought to show its approval of Admiral Vonstoch's efforts to increase the fleet. Haenel's motion was rejected.

Bismarck Thinks his Presence in the Reichstag Embarrassing.

BERLIN, March 4.—Bismarck gave a select parliamentary dinner yesterday to the more prominent members of the reichstag, including three presidents. Bismarck said that his presence in the reichstag tended to produce nervousness and they could get on much better without him.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

Fiendish Attempt.

ST. JOHN'S, March 5.—An unsuccessful attempt to wreck the express train going north on the inter-colonial road was made last night near Welford, where a pile of sleepers and other debris had been placed on the track. Fortunately the engineer succeeded in clearing the path. The miscreants, whose intention was evidently plunder, when they saw their object had failed, stoned the cars, breaking several windows, but doing no damage to life or limb.

AN INQUIRY.

PORTLAND, Ogn., March 2, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

SIR: I would like to inquire how it is that the rebuilding of the Harrison Street school cost $16,747 91-100, (without painting) when practical builders and contractors stated at the special meeting, held in June last, it could be rebuilt for from $8000 to $10,000?

It appears to me that the business interests of the taxpayers were not the main consideration in this matter and that extravagance and not economy was the order of the day. The indebtedness of $13,000 can readily be accounted for if everything else connected with this district has been conducted on a similar scale.

Chinese Wanted.

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.

To Wm. F. Babcock, President of Chamber of Commerce, San Francisco: Labor can be had in sugar cotton and rice fields of Louisiana for large numbers of Chinese. We suggest, if transportation is being furnished to get them out of San Francisco, that they be sent to New Orleans.

CYRUS BUSSEY,
President Chamber of Commerce.
WM. CUNNINGHAM,
President New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

The gentlemen signing the telegram are evidently laboring under the misapprehension that San Francisco is paying the expenses of these Chinese emigrants.

Suicide of a San Francisco Theatrical Manager.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—E. G. Cotton, a well known theatrical manager, suicided at Alameda last night in a vacant lot with a revolver, shooting himself in the brain. The body was not discovered until to day. He left a letter to his wife saying that money matters caused the act. Much money was due him, which he could not collect and pay his debts, and rather than be a defaulter, he killed himself. He lately organized a troupe that went through the interior, which was unsuccessful and depressed him. No money was found on his person.

Frozen to Death.

TRUCKEE, March 5.—Truman Griffith was found frozen to death about half a mile from this place this evening. Deceased was the owner of a small farm near Campbell's hot springs, Lake Tahoe. He started from the lake Wednesday afternoon; a severe snow storm prevailed and his horse became exhausted. He was found dead about a mile back of Griffith's, frozen. Griffith started for town and losing his road became exhausted, took off his coat to protect his horse, and crawled 100 yards on his hands and knees. Deceased was the putative husband of an abandoned woman named Jenny Stanley, who was found frozen to death in a brothel here two months since.

Fiendish Attempt to Rape at Astoria.

The girl's screams brought aid, but during the excitement Henrichsen escaped. He has since been arrested by Chief Barry, who found him secreted behind a pile of sacked grain, in the Farmers' warehouse. There was some talk of lynching, but Barry got him in jail. Henrichsen only arrived in this city last night from Portland.

A MURDERER'S COURAGE.

Execution of Chas. Colby at Santa Cruz—He Makes the Usual Plea—An Awkward Job by the Sheriff.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SANTA CRUZ, March 5.—Agreeable to the order of the supreme court, Chas. Colby was executed at Santa Cruz to-day at 2 P. M. A vast concourse was present to witness the execution, numbering some 1500. The execution passed off quietly, Colby apparently the least excited of any in the crowd. His neck was not broken owing to the slipping of the rope to the back of the neck. Consequently he died by slow strangulation, his chest heaving in regular intervals for some 12 minutes. Otherwise he showed no struggle. Colby appeared cool and collected, and chatted with friends who paid him visits of courtesy or condolence. He passed the last night of this existence, so far as known, in tranquil and refreshing sleep. To day he said to a reporter: "I hope you will do me justice as I have not had justice done me, but that is all right. Society requires its offerings at stated times, and if my death is required, I yield it up cheerfully as others have done before me. If it only serves to put the community on its guard against hasty judgments and prejudiced testimony, I shall feel amply compensated. My elder brother yielded up his life to appease an angry rabble, and why not I." Placing a document in the reporter's hand, he said: "Please take a copy of my dying statement and make it public. The original I wish my friend Flagg here to take to send to the religious press at the east." Colby's statement, which is quite lengthy, was to the purport that he was a victim of perjured evidence, mob, outcry and badly managed defense. It also contained considerable rambling matter regarding the failure of justice in general, etc. When the death warrant was about to be read to him in jail, Colby was the coolest one present. He calmly lit his cigar, saying, "shall I take my hat off? Well, no, I won't," suiting the action by replacing his hat, he marched bravely to the scaffold and mounted without assistance. On facing the gasping crowd that had gathered around the ropes, Sheriff Dakan introduced him, saying, "I hope the present solemn occasion will be a warning to all to refrain from the indulgence of their angry passions and be a lesson to be forever remembered. Colby then commenced a rambling address to the assembled crowd, stating that he had no animosity or ill will toward Williams, that he was a humane man himself, who would not imbrue his hands in the blood of any living man but in self defence; he had no ill will or hate to any one; that it was judicial murder, etc. As he proceeded it was evident his coolness and self possession was fast failing him in spite of his efforts to appear calm. After rambling sometime longer, Sheriff Dakan interrupted him with the remark to be brief. After a time he was again recommended to close, Dakan saying he would give him five minutes more, but he claimed the privilege of an American citizen to express his mind freely, denouncing his as a judicial murder. He paid his respects to the vigilantes, organized to lynch him when taken to San Jose for safety, saying they would have done justice by him. He kept on talking until the black cap was drawn over his face and the trap sprung. His remains will be buried to-morrow in the potter's field according to his request, appended below.

About 11 A. M. Colby sent word to the county clerk that he had a last request to make, and wished it placed on file in the office, as follows:

Know all men by these presents that I, Charles Colby, of the county of Santa Cruz, state of California, believing that I am to be executed this day, and desiring that after my death my body may rest in peace, do make this my last request and solemn protest, and ask that my body may be decently buried and forever remain so, and that no mutilation or examination of my body be permitted in the interest of science or otherwise.

WOMEN MAY VOTE.

SHERIDAN, March 4, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I would like an answer to the following question through the columns of your paper: Has a woman the right to vote in a district school meeting, except she be a widow and have children to educate and taxable property in the district upon which she pays a tax.

LEGAL VOTER.

The law is as follows: "Any citizen of this state shall be entitled to vote at a school meeting who is twenty-one years of age, and has resided in the district thirty days immediately preceding such meeting, and who has property in the district upon which he or she pays tax." The law says nothing about widows and mothers of children. Any woman over twenty-one who has property in the district upon which she pays a tax, may vote at the school meeting. The only requirements are that she be a citizen of the state, with a residence of thirty days in the district. Observe that women may be citizens as well as men. Some people in their confusion of ideas hold that women are not citizens because they can't vote in general elections. But citizenship doesn't mean the right to vote, nor the right to vote doesn't mean citizenship.

SUICIDE OF JOHN EVEREST.

The Corvallis Gazette contains the following particulars of the suicide of Prof. John Everest, mention of which was made in yesterday's OREGONIAN:

Deceased was imprisoned Monday night for being intoxicated, and was retained in prison by the marshal Tuesday and Tuesday night for the purpose of getting sober. Tuesday night, at about 12 o'clock, Marshal Miller went to the prison, as is his custom, and seeing blood on the floor, asked deceased what was the matter, and received the answer, "I want to die." The marshal, in all haste, summoned Dr. Lee, who shortly arrived and found that deceased had severed the main artery of his left arm, just below the elbow, the weapon used being a small pocket knife. The doctor carefully bound up the wound and stopped the flow of blood, after which he returned home. Marshal Miller had occasion to be absent a few minutes, and on his return found that deceased had removed the bandage and the wound was again bleeding profusely. Dr. Lee was again called to dress the wound, and a watch was placed over the man to prevent his removing the bandage. But it was too late to save him. Deceased was a native of Kent county, England, and was about forty-five years of age, and has numerous relatives in Oregon. He leaves a wife and one child, who were at The Dalles at the time of his death. He was a member of Multnomah tribe No. 3, I. O. R. M. From about the 1st of December to February 14th he was at Philomath giving instruction to the brass band at that place, his contract having expired on the latter date, as shown by his diary. Deceased was skillful in his profession, was kind and generous, and well respected by all who knew him.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 5.

The Fitz John Porter bill was resumed and Logan discussed the two points as to whether there was a battle at Groveton, August 29th, and whether there was any force in front of Porter that day. He declared that from 6000 to 8000 were killed and wounded on the 29th of August and not more than two pieces of artillery and a small force of cavalry faced Porter. Logan believed that he had stated the case fairly, and proved that Porter's disloyalty to the officers in command had led to the disaster of the 29th, and the defeat of the 30th, in which we lost 30,000 men and forty large guns. He quoted testimony to prove that Porter said to the court martial stenographer, "Well, I was not loyal to Pope, there's no denying that." McClellan had written three days after the battle to Porter, "For my sake and the country's sake be faithful to Pope." It was bad taste for southern congressmen who had fought openly and bravely, to restore men whom we had kicked out of our own army for misconduct. He protested against rehabilitating Porter as a great crime and as an extravagant and illegal proceeding. Adjourned.

House.

Carlisle introduced a bill fixing the duties on sugar as follows: on all sugars not above No. 13 Dutch standard, in colors, 2 40-100 cents per pound; above No. 13 and not above No 16, 2 75-100 cents per pound; also over No. 16, 4 cents per pound. Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to alter or amend the act of Aug. 15, 1876, to carry into effect the convention between the United States and the king of the Hawaiian Islands. Referred.

A bill was introduced by Ellis to make rape in the District of Columbia punishable with death.

Delamatyr offered a resolution directing the census committee to inquire into the advisability of taking a census in Alaska. Adopted.

Vance, from the coinage committee, submitted a report respecting the decimal system and weights and measures for English speaking people. Ordered printed.

The bill allowing the heir of Albert Fuller to apply for an extension of his faucet patent was defeated, 149 to 49.

Morrison, from the ways and means committee, reported the immediate transportation bill. Printed and recommitted.

After the morning hour the house went into committee on the private calendar, but finding no quorum, rose.

McMahon, from the appropriations committee, reported a deficiency bill appropriating $682,000, of which $100,000 is for public printing.

Hazelton, rising to correct the record, said that Warner, in the speech to which he (Hazelton) had replied yesterday, used the words "hospital pimps," which words were not in the Record. His speech would not be appreciated by his constituents if Warner's was mangled as it ordinarily was in the Record.

Warner retorted that Hazelton's had also been revised, which Hazelton denied.

Warner said that he was inclined to believe that it would be better not to have revised his speech. It was best as originally written. However, all members of the house altered their speeches.

Hazelton said that it was an old trick of Warner's to strike out objectionable words when answers were made to his speeches which he did not like.

Warner excitedly denounced this as a falsehood, for which Hazelton said he would hold him responsible. He denies having applied the words "hospital pimp" to government pensioners, but to certain claimants. He reproached Hazelton with having not been in the army, but keeping close to Canada during the war.

Hazelton rejoined asserting that Warner was wounded early in the war and sought a pension early, and that his wound was in the back.

The speaker interrupted, but Warner said that he referred the house to his record in the army without a blush. He made a vigorous assault on Hazelton, but the matter dropped, and the house adjourned.

EAST PORTLAND NOTES.

Gathered by an Oregonian Reporter.

Frank Bode has commenced a frame building 25 by 75 feet on the east side of the Fourth street bridge. It will be occupied as a grocery store.

Frank Price, an eight year old school boy while "riding" a barrel down hill near the J street school house, was thrown violently to the ground, and received two severe gashes, one above and one below his right eye, laying the flesh open to the bone.

Work of driving the piles for the foundation of Burkhart's new building on the west side of the First street bridge was completed yesterday morning. About noon while raising the "gin" with a derrick, a strap broke, and the "gin" fell with a crash. Several workmen narrowly escaped injury. The damage was slight.

The grounds around the new brewery have been handsomely graded and ornamented under the direction of Mr. Charles Bartel, landscape gardener. The contract for a large pavilion will be let next Monday to the lowest bidder. It will be octagonal, have a gallery around the hall for promenading and the main floor will be arranged for dancing.

Theo. Grueninger, formerly foreman of the Oregon Furniture Company's factory, has leased the planing mill on J street, and added some of the latest improved machinery. He has all the work he can do for the present in furnishing the ornamental wood work for S. G. Reed's eight new residences. He reports the prospect excellent for the coming season.

Joseph Eggleston, who for the past year has been interested in Smith Bros. sawmill, has started the sash and door factory on Water street, above the ferry landing. All the machinery is not yet in position, but the factory is very busy filling orders. The engine, though small, is a model of beauty and perfect motion, and the machinery is of the latest pattern.

The discussions over street improvements are getting decidedly warm. Most of the thoroughfares are in as bad a condition as possible. There is no money in the general fund to improve them, and resolutions have been passed to repair Water, Fourth and L streets. The property owners along the streets have remonstrated, and the trustees will not run the general fund further in debt. From the way matters look just now, all the streets will remain unimproved for some time to come.

WHO SHALL BE SCHOOL DIRECTOR?

PORTLAND, March 5, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

It is claimed by some who advocate the election of Mr. John Wilson for school director that he favors an even more extended and expensive system of public education than we now have in our city, and that because Mr. E. J. Northrup is in favor of retrenchment and economy in the management of our schools he is an enemy of the same and ought to be defeated.

It seems pretty clear, however, from influences which caused the circulation of the paper calling Mr. Wilson out as a candidate, as well as other matters which cannot but suggest themselves to any one giving the matter serious thought, that Mr. Wilson is nominated in the interest of certain teachers, and notably of one teacher with whom he has reputed business relations. There are many friends of the public schools who desire to see the administration of our school affairs lifted from out the old rut it is running in and placed in the hands of those who are in favor of exercising at least a little economy and who are untrammeled by any relations with or prepossessions for the existing overgrown system. To such the only present course seems to be to elect Mr. Northrup.

DELUSIONS CONCERNING TAXATION.

It is probable there are many persons among us of the class of small taxpayers and of those who pay no taxes, who imagine that it is the wealthy class who bear most of the weight of taxation under our system, and who therefore are the persons by whom most objection is made to the prevailing extravagance. Such opinion is a grave mistake. Most wealthy men can easily escape large part of the taxation that would result from a just and full valuation of all property. They can put great sums into United States bonds; other great sums they send out of the state for investment in ways which the taxgatherer cannot trace; and still other great sums they are constantly borrowing in the turn of business transactions which they deduct as indebtedness from their valuation. When taxes are found to be growing burdensome, wealthy men are the very ones whose opportunities enable them to defeat the effort to impose these burdens. Then when the levy is doubled up, under the delusion that in this way they can be made to pay, they are able to meet it again and again; the intended stroke by new and easy methods of financial management. But how fares it with those who have small property? Thy have no money they can put into United States bonds; they cannot borrow great sums and reduce their valuation to a minimum by deduction of indebtedness nor can they send money away for investment where our taxation cannot reach it. Upon them, therefore, our local taxation falls with its full weight. There is nothing to break its force, no way to turn it upon others. The tax is intended to fall mostly on the wealthy class, and shallow observers may think the purpose has been gained. But in fact the wealthy class are able to take care of themselves and prevent the success of the attempt, and the burden is shifted from back to back and from rank to rank until it reaches the small taxpayers and the laboring class, men who daily come in contact with reality, and who must bear the burden, because they can pass it no further.

A wealthy man has property well worth five hundred thousand dollars. Yet it is valued under our system, which is supposed to favor the poor man and the small taxpayer, at two hundred thousand as an extreme figure. But he owes debts aggregating one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. His net assessment therefore is but fifty thousand. The one hundred and fifty thousand which he owes manages to find concealment; for money under such circumstances does not assert itself but is of very modest and retiring disposition. Here, then, is a case where wealth pays upon one-tenth of its value;—and such cases are not few. Now take the man whose property is worth but ten thousand dollars, and one who must depend not on investments but on his daily labor for his daily bread. These small properties are invariably rated higher in proportion than the large ones, and he who has property worth ten thousand dollars, cannot possibly get off with paying on one-tenth of its value, but at least must pay on one half. This happens when his property is in real estate. Should it be in money, the product of the hard labor and severe economy of a lifetime, it is taxed at a full amount and he finds that the public assessed almost confiscates any income he is able to derive from it, employ it how he will. And the small taxpayer usually can not get in debt to any great extent because he cannot get trusted, and besides he is justly prudent and timid about such things; and therefore he has little or no indebtedness to offset his valuation.

In the operations of tariffs and taxes there are many delusions. The tariff on steel rails is upheld, on the supposition that is the rich who build railroads, who must pay it; when in fact it is paid chiefly by the laboring classes of the country, by being taken as freights out of the value of the products of their industry. A usury law and taxation of loans is demanded, on the theory that it will give the poor borrower an advantage over the rich lender, when in fact it is only an obstruction which makes the rate of interest higher and increases the borrower's burdens. A tax for an advanced system of free education is demanded on the supposition that the rich will have to pay the greater part of it, and that therefore it is a method of exacting money from a wealthy aristocracy for the benefit of the poor; when in fact the rich succeed easily in shifting the greater part of the burden to the shoulders of the very classes who demand the system and uphold it, and flatter themselves with the delusion that they are worrying the rich and that themselves are the gainers. Every expedient of this kind, whether it be a protective tariff, a usury law, or excessive taxation in any form or for any purpose, instead of equalizing things and reducing the distinctions between rich and poor, only widens these distinctions by giving the rich constantly increasing advantages. Such is the subtlety of financial transactions, under aggregated wealth, that the greater the concentration of wealth the less is its liability to its full share and burden of taxation, and the more numerous are its possible expedients of escape. The case of William H. Vanderbilt is an illustration of many more. He is the richest man in America, worth some say one hundred million dollars; yet not one dollar of personal property did he return for taxation. Be sure always of one thing, namely, that when taxes are excessive, the heavier proportion of the burden will always fall on men of small property and on the laboring class; because they are the people whose business is not so extensive as to furnish them expedients and loopholes of escape. There can not be the slightest doubt that close investigation of the facts would disclose instances without number here in Portland where men of small property have been paying our heavy school taxes year after year and yet have never been able to send their children to the schools of advanced grades, while men wealthy or well-to-do have escaped taxation in large part by sending their money away from Portland or by other expedients, and yet have sent their children year after year to the free schools, including the high school. At this moment we have in mind the names of men of both descriptions. It is idle, therefore, to claim that such a system is in favor of the poor. It is simply an additional aid to building up an aristocracy, and they are but poor observers who do not see through it to its logical and inevitable consequences.

PROTECTION OF SALMON.

It may not be generally known that the law prohibiting the taking of salmon is now in operation. This law was enacted by the legislature of our state at the last session, and an exactly similar law is in force in Washington territory. It declares that "it shall not be lawful to take or fish for salmon in the Columbia river or its tributaries, by any means whatever, during the months of March, August and September, nor in the weekly close times in the months of April, May, June and July; that is to say between the hours of six o'clock in the afternoon of each and every Saturday, until six o'clock in the afternoon of Sunday following." It will be observed that fishing for salmon "by any means whatever," is prohibited throughout the entire month of March, and there is an equal prohibition and penalty against purchasing any salmon caught within or during the month. The penalty for either act is a fine of not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars for the first offense, and for each and every subsequent offense, not less than one thousand dollars, to which may be added at the discretion of the court imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding one year. It will be observed that the law is a very stringent one. The penalty falls with the same severity upon the purchaser as upon the catcher of the fish; and fishermen and fish dealers, as well as those who buy fish for their tables, would do well to take note of the law and be on their guard. It is proper enough that salmon should be protected at proper seasons, else they will soon be exterminated. Everybody should have an interest in enforcing the law.

Every indication points to a great tide of emigration from Ireland to the United States, as the result of the prevailing famine. This was the case as the result of the famine of 1846-47. The years immediately following that period of distress witnessed an exodus from the Emerald Isle of proportions never equaled before nor since. Counting only those who left Ireland for this country, whose numbers however, represent by far the major part of the emigration from that island, the tide swelled from 44,800 in 1845 to 51,700 in 1846, and 105,500 in 1847. It increased to 112,900 in 1848 and 159,300 in 1849. The maximum, 221,213, was reached in 1851, from which it declined to 159,500 in 1852, 102,600 in 1853, and 105,900 in 1854, or about the same figures as those in 1847. In 1855 it fell off to 50,300, and since then the annual numbers have ranged from 50,000 to 70,000. It will be noticed that the stream of emigration started by the famine in 1846 did not subside for ten years. Between the last mentioned year and 1854, inclusive, the Irish who found homes and employment in the United States numbered 1,535,000. In this way this country contributed more generously than in any other to relieve the distress of those times, and there is little doubt that it will do equally as much for the sufferers of to day. An immense influx of Irish people to this country may confidently be expected during the next four years; and as the times are so much better here than they have been before in many years, it is not unlikely that emigrants will be drawn hither from all foreign countries in large numbers.

It is estimated that the five per cent. land bill, which has been under discussion in congress and of which THE OREGONIAN recently gave an account, will take from the treasury $3,943,172. It proposes to reimburse the states for five per cent. of the value of land granted by the general government on military warrants. A table made up at the general land office shows that nineteen states are interested in the bill. The total number of acres entered under military warrants is 61,170,764. The value at $1 25 per acre would be $76,463,455, five per cent of which would be the sum above stated. Iowa would get more than any other state, namely $881,239. Illinois would get $595,865, and Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Kansas would follow with smaller sums, decreasing in the order named. The amount of land located in Oregon under military warrants is reported to be only 79,119 acres, five per cent of the value of which would be only $4 949. Our state wouldn't get rich out of the bill unless its terms were made broad enough to include railway and wagon road grants. But this is not likely to be done. As the bill stands, Oregon will hold it in contempt, as it will not bring the state as much money as Grover used to allow certain individuals for imaginary services in selecting swamp lands.

It is said by war department officers that great pressure is being made upon the department for the detail of officers as military instructors at colleges and universities. According to existing law, the number of officers authorized to be detailed in this capacity is limited to thirty. The law also provides that they can only be detailed to universities and colleges having facilities for educating 150 students at one time. There are bills now pending before congress providing that the number of such detail be increased from thirty to fifty. It is understood that the general of the army is opposed to the detail of lieutenants and junior officers for such purpose, and that he favors the employment of retired officers as instructors, with the full pay of their rank while so engaged in lieu of retired pay. The existing law does not prohibit the detailing of retired officers as professors of military colleges, but they are not allowed any additional compensation for such service.

The New York Times, which has been "booming" for Grant, confesses that there are strong symptoms of a rising popular feeling against him. "The fact is," it says, "that many of those who desired Grant, severed from his old associations, presumably broadened by his experience and observation, and known to be strong, self-reliant, steadfast in purpose, and prompt in action, do not want him as the candidate of the Camerons and Conklings, secured by manipulated caucuses and pledged delegations. They wanted him as the people's choice, not the politicians' cat's paw." The reason why he should not be nominated at all could hardly be stated better than it is in these smoothly turned sentences, written so as to state as mildly as possible the real objections to Grant.

"Gath" (George Alfred Townsend) the well known correspondent, wrote recently from New York that there were no less than eight hundred vessels lying in that port waiting for cargoes, which they cannot get owing to the lock-up of grain and provisions by the speculators, and that this state of things will keep on until navigation opens on our lakes in April next, because the speculators would be ruined as well as their brokers, if they unlocked now. "Gath" draws a very dismal picture of the situation, and urges a congressional investigation but fails to show how that would better the condition of things.

A statement comes from New York that the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad will make its Pacific coast termination at Guaymas, and that construction from that point towards the north and east will begin at once. Rails have already been bought in England, and will be allowed to enter Guaymas free of duty. It is claimed that the route will be the shortest one by 1000 miles for the Australian and New Zealand trade. Guaymas is on the Gulf of California in the Mexican state of Sonora, about half way up the gulf from the Pacific ocean.

Fire statistics of the United States are said to show that the losses of 1879 amounted to $77,703,700 and the insurance to $44,464,700 which is an excess of losses to the insurance companies over any of the four previous years.

CITY.

Charged with Lunacy.—For several days an old man named Willoby Binn has been living in a small cabin about three miles east of East Portland, where he was found by some of the neighbors in a half starved condition. There was no food of any kind in the cabin, and the only thing there was to protect him from the cold was an old quilt and a few dirty rags. Binn is about 52 years of age. He said he had not had a mouthful of food for three days except a few raw potatoes. He was reduced to almost skeleton-like starvation and was so weak that he could scarcely speak above a whisper. On being questioned, Binn said that he has been living in Eastern Oregon and in Washington county since 1872; that he has no relatives on this coast. He seems to have an insane idea that every person is trying to poison him, and for that reason he refuses to eat. Mr. Royal, one of his neighbors, furnished him with some food, but he would only eat raw meat. His mind seems to be affected—as much perhaps, from continued fasting as any other cause. The neighbors were convinced that Binn was insane and Judge Rice was notified of his condition. Yesterday an officer was sent over to the cabin to get the old man and bring him to this city. He was found in the cabin, apparently contented. When told by the officer that he was wanted in Portland, he expressed a willingness to accompany him. Binn is in a very filthy condition, and presents a disgusting spectacle. He was brought to this city and provided for. To-day Binn will be examined before Judge Rice on the charge of lunacy.

A Proper Memorial.—Mr. William Reid, secretary of the board of trade of Portland, has received a note from Dr. Aug. C. Kinney, of Astoria, inclosing a copy of a memorial adopted at that place, and addressed to the senate and house of representatives, "praying an appropriation of $250,000 to begin the construction of a breakwater at the mouth of the Columbia river, in accordance with the report of Col. Gillespie, major of engineers, dated Dec. 17, 1879, to the chief of engineers." In the letter enclosing the memorial, Mr. Kinney justly says: "We should have 5000 names from Multnomah county. Portland's interest is with us in this matter. Will you have the petition circulated in Portland? Senator Slater has probably introduced the bill before this." This is a matter which requires immediate and general attention. Our growing commerce imperatively demands such improvement at the mouth of the Columbia river as will put a stop to reports which are being circulated to the detriment of our interests.

The Sunken Boats.—John Holland, the master builder of the O. S. N. Co., has been at work since Wednesday with a force of men raising the Willamette Chief and barge which sank Tuesday morning near the mouth of the Willamette. Mr. Holland is of the opinion that neither the boat nor barge is badly sprung, and that he will have them up by to-night or to-morrow. Mr. Holland arrived last evening and reports everything is working well. He expects to have the Willamette Chief brought down to Portland this evening. The damage to the hull of the barge is much less than was at first reported. It is intended to tow the barge down some distance and to fix her, before the hole can be closed.

The Steamer Columbia.—In speaking of this new steamship, which was launched on the 24th ult., a San Francisco exchange says: The new steamer Columbia, recently built at Chester, for the Oregon Steamship Co., is completed and measures 3300 tons, with accommodations for 250 cabin passengers and 300 steerage. Her appliances of every kind are of the most improved character, including electric bells, a telephone, connecting the captain's bridge with the engine room, steam-steering apparatus, and steam winches and capstans. Our Oregon friends will fare well with vessels.

Miss Frances Wetherell.—This young lady, well and favorably known to the public as a reader and elocutionist, will give a dramatic and musical entertainment at New Market Theater in a few weeks—some time early in April. The purpose of the entertainment is to enable Miss Wetherell to raise a sufficient fund to go to the east and complete her elocutionary education. Her intention is to take a thorough course under some competent master of the art. She will be assisted in giving the entertainment by some of the best talent in the city.

Accidental Shooting.—On Saturday last, at about noon, Augustus Pnoert, a farmer living in the Sandy district, started out with a gun to hunt some wolves, which he supposed were killing his sheep. Instead of finding these animals, a neighbor's dog was discovered. This dog he struck at with the butt end of the gun, which was discharged, the contents entering the abdomen of the man, resulting in death at 4 o'clock the same day. Deceased was aged about 35 years, and leaves a wife and four children. He was well and favorably known in the vicinity.

A New Lodge.—Mt. Zion Lodge, No. 106, A. F. and A. M., was organized at Stillwater[?], Clackamas county, Oregon, on Monday, March 1, 1880, by E. W. Ryan, Esq., acting as D. G. W. C. T., with the following officers: J. D. Palmateer, W. C. T.; J. Palmateer, W. V. T.; Wm. Folsom, Secretary; F. S.; Wm. Palmateer, F. S.; T. Palmateer, Chap.; J. Williams, M.; [illegible]; G. R. Pinkley, S.; G. C. Palmateer, W. D. T.; J. W. Palmateer, L. D.

A Real Estate Sale.—Mayor D. P. Thompson disposed of his interest yesterday in the property situated at the corner of Front and Stark streets known as the "Essex block." The property is 100x100 feet square and has a substantial brick building on it. For his share Mr. Thompson disposed of his interest for the sum of $30,000. The other one-fourth of the property was sold a few days since for the sum of $7500. Mr. W. B. Honeyman and F. Smith are the purchasers.

Another Indictment.—Geo. A. Moody, who was convicted of the crime of burglary, was to have been sentenced by Judge Bellinger yesterday. Moody is under another indictment for a similar offense, and before receiving sentence will be tried. The time for passing sentence has been enlarged by Judge Bellinger until the 10th inst. If convicted of the second offense, he will be sentenced for both at the same time.

Annual Meeting.—The board of directors of the Portland Seamen's Friend society are requested to meet for the transaction of business relating to the annual and anniversary meeting of said society, to be held this month. AMUSEMENTS.

The Woman in Red.—A very strong play, well put on the stage, picturesquely dressed and all the characters sustained in a most creditable manner constituted the attraction last evening, and will be repeated this evening at the theater.

This play is composed of a prologue in two acts, and the drama in three acts between the prologue and the play proper a period of sixteen years is supposed to elapse. The opening scene introduces the [illegible] to the home of Maggie, the [illegible] wife [illegible] Miriam a Jewess, together with Rouben, her husband, leave the care of their infant to [illegible] during a short absence while visiting some acquaintances. During this time the child is kidnapped, [illegible] of the distressed mother gives a [illegible] with the [illegible] play and involves [illegible] principal characters, makes one of the strongest dramatic scenes, and leads up to an exciting climax. The poor bereaved Jewess dies in her wanderings, and search every city in the hope at last of her efforts to find her child being crowned with success. In the first act of the drama, which is the third of the performance, we find her telling fortunes to a superstitious crowd of villagers. She is dressed in a red garment with red head dress, assuming this peculiar garb to create attention and the greater to impress her clients. Among those who came to consult this clairvoyante, or as she is now known as Rudiga the Jewess, is one Countess Dora, and in the consultation held over the fortune telling cards, the "Woman in Red" gets a clue from confessions of the countess that she is not the mother of the young girl supposed to be her daughter, now one of the belles of Florence, as is generally supposed, but had bought this child, and passed it off as her own. This leads up to the discovery by Rudiga that this child is hers. At this stage of the drama the play is intensely interesting, particularly the scenes between the daughter and the two women who each represents herself as her mother. For the countess loves this girl as though her daughter, and when she finds that Rudiga is the true mother, retracts the confession previously made.

It is one of the best melodramatic pieces that has as far been presented here, and the acting of Mr. Chaplan, Simms, Allen and Lindsay was very good. Mrs. Waite gave a very excellent performance of "The Woman in Red," while Miss Adams, as the daughter, and Miss Douglas and McLennon were up to their usual standard. "The Woman in Red" will be repeated to-night and ought to command a large attendance. On Monday evening the beautiful classical play of "Pygmalion and Galatea" will be produced, in which the Prismatic Fountain, said to be a most beautiful effect, will be introduced. Seats for any performance can be secured at Blumauer's drug store, corner of First and Stark.

The Matinee.—"Hunted Down, or The Two Lives of Mary Leigh," together with Little Maud's farce of "Little Susie, or Out to Nurse," will be the attraction. This is a very strong bill, and it is safe to say will draw a very large audience. Reserved seats are for sale at Blumauer's.

Important Move.

Messrs. Mellis Bros. & Co. announce their last week at 172 First street. They will after that occupy the mammoth building, 126 First street, running through to 127 Front, which they have altered to accommodate their large and growing trade. They have certainly been selling at very low figures, as goods contracted for in the early fall are now beginning to arrive. By energy, enterprise, fair dealing, and the One Price System, the firm has built up a large trade and one which is bound to increase as the natural result of their system of reasonable profits and variety of stock.

OUR DUMB BRUTES.

THE HUMANE SOCIETY.

Pursuant to previous call quite a large meeting of our citizens assembled in the hall of the Y. M. C. A. to hear addresses and to participate in other exercises relating to the promotion among the people, of the interests of the Oregon Humane Society.

The opening prayer was offered by Rev. T. L. Eliot.

The former compared society in the days of Sidney Smith with our own; spoke of the generous support given to the Royal Humane Society of England, and briefly but forcibly set forth the abuses incident to the transportation of dumb animals and the fearful losses thereby entailed, amounting to 5 per cent. of all the cattle transported, while the condition of the beeves brought to the shambles was such as to make them unfit for food. The bare thought of the sufferings of these poor dumb brutes was sufficient argument for the effort of this and kindred societies.

Following this address, "Nearer my God to Thee," was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Dr. Bird.

The carefully prepared article read by Mr. W. T. Shanahan, was listened to with marked interest. It really deserves a circulation which the press alone can give it. He stated that prevention is the aim and prosecution is the remedy of this society. In England 600 clergymen in one year preached on this subject. The first society in England was organized in 1824. In this country in 1866; since that time 100 societies have been formed, and over 100 in other portions of the world. These societies contemplate the weal of all classes, and the correction of such flagrant crimes, as by their influence, was unearthed at the Shepherd's Fold in New York.

Mrs. Dr. Thompson showed the relation of sentiment to the development of principles. The limits of three minutes precluded the possibility of more than a few choice sentences from this lady, or the two gentlemen who followed.

REPORT.

The president of the meeting, Dr. O. B. Bird, then read the following report:

The committee appointed Feb. 16 to report constitution and by-laws, and plan of organization, met on the 28th of February, were called to order by Chairman Shanahan, and Dr. Bird was appointed secretary.

Present—W. T. Shanahan, Mrs. Dr. Thompson, Rev. J. A. Cruzan, L. M. Parrish and Drs. Fraser, Saylor and Bird.

The committee recommend that a new organization be effected, with new articles of incorporation; also, that the name adopted be "The Oregon Humane Society," and the following method of procedure: First, take the names and money of all who are willing to become members at $1 a year for adults and 25 cents for children; second, adopt the accompanying constitution, and third, elect officers and executive committee.

The following names were presented and duly elected to fill the following offices:

For president, Hon. D. P. Thompson; vice president, Hon. H. W. Corbett; corresponding secretary, W. T. Shanahan; treasurer, James Steel.

Executive committee—Dr. E. P. Fraser, Mrs. Dr. Thompson, Mrs. Damon, Judge Bonaugh.

A list of members was then taken, those only entitled to vote for officers who paid their annual fee of $1, children 25 cents.

Afterward the following constitution was adopted:

CONSTITUTION.

Art. 2—Its object shall be the prevention of cruelty to every living creature by all proper means, including humane education.

Honorary members can be chosen by a two-thirds vote at any regular meeting of the society.

Art. 5—Its officers shall be a president, vice president, corresponding secretary, recording secretary, treasurer, and an executive committee of four, all to be elected by the society and to serve one year or until their successors shall be elected; and the president, corresponding secretary and treasurer shall be members of the executive committee.

Art. 6—Meetings of the society and its officers shall be held at such times and places as the society or its executive committee shall direct.

Art. 7—The president, secretaries and treasurer shall perform the duties usually devolving upon such officers respectively.

Art. 8—The officers of the society may be either gentlemen or ladies, or both.

Mayor D. P. Thompson made a few pointed remarks expressive of his determination to do his utmost to carry out the purposes of this organization.

THE WHITNEY & HOLMES ORGAN.

Complimentary Letter from the Company to the Agent, J. H. Robbins—The Excellence of the Instruments, Etc.

One of the greatest difficulties which the manufacturers of first class organs, and those who deal in them, have to contend with is the competition offered by cheap, worthless instruments usually in the hands of agents whose only object is to make sales and reap profit without a view of establishing themselves permanently in business or giving to purchasers anything like value received for their money. It is gratifying to note the progress of the firm of Robbins & Yates, No. 220 First street, sole agents for the celebrated Whitney & Holmes Organ, manufactured at Quincy, Illinois. Their business, which was established in August, 1876, by J. H. Robbins, senior member of the firm, has grown steadily and attained such proportions that it can now be reckoned as one of Portland's prominent institutions. In May, 1879, Mr. Robbins formed a copartnership with C. P. Yates and opened their present establishment. A letter was addressed to the Whitney & Holmes Organ Co. in February asking for a statement of the number and value of the organs bought by Mr. Robbins from August, 1876, to May, 1879. The company replied in the following very complimentary letter:

Office of Whitney & Holmes Organ Co.,
Quincy, Ill., Feb. 17, 1880.

J. H. Robbins, Portland, Or.:

As per your request of the 10th of January, 1880, we herewith enclose you a statement of your account with this company from the time you first ordered samples of our instruments, in August, 1876, to the time of your partnership with Mr. Yates. You will find a detailed statement of the account which will show you readily all that you wished information upon. In forwarding to you this document we cannot refrain from an expression of hearty enjoyment in experiences we have had in our business relations with you, and if we could have a larger proportion of our agents as desirable as you are and have been from the first, we should find it a genuine pleasure to do business; but you, probably without knowing it, are an exception to agents generally, as you have always put confidence in what we said, and relied on the honor of our firm, without a doubt we should trust you generously in all your dealings with us. This has of itself made us feel kindly toward you always, and we have tried to do well for you, because we knew you was doing excellent work for us in your western State. You have succeeded in gaining our confidence fully, and under all circumstances your method of doing business in our organs has met with our approval. We think no one could have done the work better, or been more successful in establishing a name and reputation for the Whitney & Holmes Organs than you have. Accept our hearty thanks for your good work, and let us feel that you have learned to know our organs so well and so favorably that you will continue in the same good work until every house in Oregon not already supplied with a musical instrument shall possess a Whitney & Holmes Organ or one equally as desirable. We hope to see you here some time, and if you should visit the states, you may be sure of a kindly welcome from us at any time. Let us hear from you often, and believe us Yours, very truly,

W. & H. ORGAN CO.

The statement inclosed with the above showed that Mr. Robbins had purchased 210 instruments, valued at $35,587 30.

In order to have some means by which to meet the competition of worthless, low-priced organs Messrs. Robbins & Yates wrote to the Whitney & Holmes company asking whether they could not make a cheap organ. The company replied as follows, under date of February 7th:

We could get up the style of organ you suggest, and many of our agents have made the same request, but we think it bad policy. Nor could we feel right in pushing out an organ that we knew would in the end "go back" on the purchaser, though the demand is being supplied every day by firms who claim to be doing a straight business. We think if we made such an organ it would work irreparable injury, and you would find that just as soon as any of your competitors found it out they would advertise our organs as the same as the bogus ones furnished.

Robbins & Yates have one great advantage over other firms in their line. They buy the organs direct from the factory, and not from secondhands. While they do not attempt to compete with bogus and worthless organs which are being forced on the market, they have made such reductions as will enable the public to obtain first-class organs of long established reputation at very reasonable prices. They warrant these organs from the ground up. They show each customer every simple part of which the organ is composed—the ivory and ebony keys, the wires, reeds, springs, feltings, guide pins, the excellent material forming the bellows—everything about the organ. The materials used in the construction of their low priced organs are the same as in the higher priced—the difference in cost being in the cases and finish.

Robbins & Yates, in addition to their large stock of organs, have a magnificent stock of mouldings of every description, engravings, chromos, and small musical instruments. Persons dealing with this firm can rely on honest treatment in every instance.

Funny Sayings.

The public is ofttimes led to read notices in the many newspapers of the marvellous cure some kind of patent medicine has effected, and some high sounding name is attached to a testimonial as a further guarantee. But judging from the many testimonials from well known persons here in our state to the effect that the Oregon Kidney Tea has no superior for the cure of kidney and bladder diseases, we feel easy in recommending this valuable discovery to our readers who may be afflicted with any trouble in these organs.

THE METRIC SYSTEM.

The fourth lecture in the Social Science series was given on Wednesday evening by Mr. T. [illegible], to a large and much interested audience. We are unable to present an abstract, which the [illegible] favorably [illegible].

What is known as the metric system, is now adopted by all civilized nations of the world save Great Britain, Russia and the United States. For centuries weights and measures [illegible] tables and standards prevailing in [illegible] and still in vogue which are not only arbitrary and difficult in themselves, as every teacher and school knows, but there is no inter-relation among them. No common unit from which length, surface and volume can be constructed, and that each nation had a separate tables from every other, and it will be confessed that John Quincy Adams was right when he said fifty years since, that "if there existed a combination of power and will adequate to accomplish a unitary and uniform standard by a single act, the being who should exercise it would be among the greatest benefactors of the human race."

The metric system had its origin in 1790, since when it has slowly but steadily made way to its present authority in the world. Its basis is the meter, a fraction of a terrestrial meridian, about 39 inches long. It is divided decimally into tenths, hundredths and thousandths, and its multiples are decimals up to the kilometer (⅝ of a mile). For determining capacity a fraction of the meter is taken as one-tenth and cubed, giving the liter (about a quart). For weights, a hundredth of the meter, cubed, and filled with water at 39°, is taken and called a gram. These, with the subdivisions and multiples, all decimal, and appropriately named, constitute the system.

Blackboard illustrations were then given of the workings of the system. They showed that in all reductions the simple moving of a decimal point accomplishes what now involves numerous and vexing operations.

Objections to the introduction of the system were then considered and largely found to be simply prejudice in favor of what has become the habit of thought. Our present Arabic notation, 1, 2, 3, etc., was once strenuously opposed, and the Roman notation (as on a clock face) maintained to be the only natural method. No hasty change to the metric system is advocated. Gradually it is found in all scientific works and institutions; is taught in the schools as a preparatory information; is used in the higher branches of official and private business. Its simplicity, the easy mastery of its terms, the immense labor saving in education, and in every calculation, all place the strongest claims on our consideration. The main difficulty is to form the habit of thinking in meters and grams and liters as we now do, in feet, ounces and quarts. For those past middle life this is at first difficult, but the young quickly accomplish it, and the benefit accruing should make the task a welcome one to even the slowest comprehension and most conservative mind. Miss Test and Miss Chamberlain gave the excellent musical exercises of the evening. The next lecture is by Dr. Rex, on March 18.

The fashion of wearing anklets has been introduced by English votaries of extreme novelty.

Waists trimmed with feathers or with feathers mixed with lace, are a new idea for evening dresses.

New sashes have plain ends. The embroidered, fringed or lace ornamented ends are out of fashion.

Satin cashmere is a new and expensive dress material. It has a twilled glossy surface upon a woolen foundation.

An odd design in fans is one of blue crape, ornamented with stars of white lace and having sticks of dark blue crape.

Persian ribbons having fringe an inch in depth are new. Little tassels of mixed colors are set here and there in the fringe.

White Spanish lace may be had now in widths sufficient for any style of drapery. It is elegant in conjunction with white satin.

Ribbon embroidery is one of the fashionable pastimes of Parisian women. It is an old fashion revived by the Duchess de Mouchy.

The distinctive features of this spool cotton are that it is made from the very finest

It is finished soft as the cotton from which it is made; it has no waxing or artificial finish to deceive the eyes; it is the strongest, smoothest and most elastic sewing thread in the market; for machine sewing it has no equal; it is wound on

The Black is the most perfect

Ever produced in spool cotton, being dyed by a system patented by ourselves. The colors are dyed by the

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET

The following special report of the real estate market is furnished THE OREGONIAN by Clark & Upson, real estate brokers and architects

The number of real estate transactions recorded at the city hall during the past week is 24 and the total amount $24 [illegible] as compared with 29 and 12,992 the preceding week Fourteen were city 14 country and suburban, and 6 East Portland properties The recorded purchases and sales however do not embrace several large transactions in city property made but not recorded, which if added would bring the amount named to little short of $150 000 The general features of the market remain unchanged There is neither rush nor fever but an apparently well founded confidence in the present stability and future growth of Portland Hence the willingness of capitalists to invest, and the desire of individuals of more moderate means to acquire business or residence sites. The feeling of confidence is founded on the belief that the development of the various railroad projects in progress and contemplated will put large sums of money in circulation, and later by affording increased facilities of transport, will greatly augment the exports and expand both the foreign and domestic commerce of Portland. Nor can we contravene the popular belief. The future of Portland looms up bright and strong. In our judgment the existing confidence is based on a sound foundation

EASTERN FREIGHTS AND MARKETS

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

NEW YORK March 5—There is no improvement to note in the freight market which remains very dull. There are three vessels on berth all in competition for such freights as is offering outside of regular shipments and although there are some pretensions to firmness in ruling rates, there is no doubt but that some cutting is being done by some lines as an inducement to shippers The fact is that outside of certain regular shipments, (and these are light for the season) there is very little doing, as shippers do not appear to have faith in future business and prefer to await the settlement of the labor troubles in San Francisco before entering the market to any extent. This feeling has been manifest during the past week, as will be seen by reference to overland shipment figures which are less than last week, while there has been a very material falling off during the past few days. Total shipments amount to 6758 pkgs, including [illegible] syrup, 40 bags cocoa beans 100 cases milk [illegible] whisky, 310 boxes soap 25 boxes castile soap [illegible] bales hops, 100 kegs pickled fish 50 cases canned goods, 562 pkgs tobacco, 100 bales cloves 28 cases [illegible], 4812 bars steel rails

THE GENUINE

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR C McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL

For all bilious derangements and as a simple purgative they are unequaled

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

The genuine are never sugar coated

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression DR McLANE'S LIVER PILLS

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C McLANE and FLEMING BROS on the wrappers

Insist upon having the genuine DR C McLANE'S LIVER PILLS prepared by Fleming Bros of Pittsburgh Pa the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA or SEMINAL WEAKNESS or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.
